

ANNOUNCING
THE OFFICIAL RULES FOR THE
CREATIVE FORMS / CREATIVE WEAPONS
COMPETITION

Grand Master Soon Ho Lee and the Masters Council are proud to announce the official rules for the CREATIVE FORMS and CREATIVE WEAPONS competition events that will start at the 2009 Songahm Taekwondo World Championships and carry on throughout all levels of competition events from then on.

These two new exciting competition events are designed to give all of our ATA competitors another avenue to stretch their physical capabilities and imagination. The rules are very similar to the ATA-Xtreme divisions, but with the elimination of the “tricks” and “gymnastic” style moves typically equated with ATA-Xtreme.

While creativity, originality, and showmanship are vital to success in these events, the overall quality of technique will still remain the basis for all scoring to begin. Without a solid foundation of superior quality martial arts movements (blocks, strikes, kicks, etc.), the creativity aspects alone will not insure victory.

Please read through the rules fully to insure your full understanding. Any questions can be directed to the ATA International Headquarters Tournament Department.

Who will be the first daring competitors to enter these new divisions at the 40th Anniversary Celebration of the ATA?

Who will walk away with the first awards given?

Who will have the crowd cheering and applauding for their amazing performance?

WHY CAN'T IT BE YOU!

ATA CREATIVE COMPETITION RULES AND GUIDELINES

ATA CREATIVE COMPETITION RULES and GUIDELINES:

ATA Creative Form and ATA Creative Weapons competitions are a “Free Style” performance that allows the mix of traditional and contemporary martial arts techniques that have evolved to present day. These may be added to a traditional form (but at least 50% of the performance MUST be original), or the form may be devised in its entirety by the competitor.

The following rules and guidelines are in place for ATA Creative Forms and ATA Creative Weapons competition:

- The form must be no longer than 2 minutes in length.
- The time starts AFTER the competitor has been called to the ring to perform, formally bowed in by the center judge, and gives the judges a signal they are ready to begin (typically the raise of the right hand).
- The score keeper will use a stop watch to time the performances and inform the center judge when 2 minutes has expired.
- Any performance that exceeds 2 minutes will result in a disqualification.
- The forms or weapons performance will be scored using the same process and point range as the ATA Traditional Forms and Traditional Weapons competition except that all three judges will judge the overall presentation rather than specific parts.
- The Creative Forms and Creative Weapons will be compared to the other competitors in that ring at that time. Because scores are given based on a COMPARISON of the performances, scores for a single competitor (using the same routine) may fluctuate from group to group or event to event. The criteria used to compare performances will be the following (not in any particular order):
 - Creativity
 - Difficulty
 - Presentation
 - Attitude
 - Precision of Technique
 - Music is allowed, but not mandatory. If music is used and the form is choreographed to the music (not just used as background music) it can improve the score. If music is not used, there will be no score deduction.
 - Control of the Weapon
- One of each of the following techniques will be permitted within a performance; kip-up, shoulder or forward roll, and center or side split.
- NO movements that involve more than a 360 degree spin or twist or require the body to be inverted more than parallel to the floor (or the head lower than the waist or body) will be allowed.
- “Chinese Wushu” type butterfly kicks and other butterfly kicks with twists will NOT be allowed.
- For ATA Creative Weapons competition, the body movement restrictions mentioned above will be the same. Weapon “releases” will NOT be allowed. The weapon (or weapons) must maintain contact with the body (or a part of) continuously throughout the presentation.

- The use of any of the movements mentioned above that are not allowed or weapon “releases” WILL result in a disqualification and loss of potential points.
- Music is allowed for both the ATA Creative Form and ATA Creative Weapons competition but both the equipment to play the music and the music itself must be supplied by the competitor along with someone at ringside to start and stop the music as well as control the volume. The equipment must have its own power source. Electrical power will not be provided.
- A competitor may not remove any part of the uniform worn during either ATA Creative competition.

SPECIAL NOTE: School owners and Instructors MUST listen to and approve all music including the appropriateness of the lyrics and the subject matter of the song prior to the competitor using it for competition. If it isn’t appropriate for our junior students to listen to, it isn’t appropriate in our competition. Inappropriate lyrics or subject matter, which would be determined by ATA International Headquarters, may cause the disqualification and loss of potential points of the competitor.

Eligibility Requirements:

In order to compete in any ATA Creative competition, the competitor must:

1. Be a member in good standing of the ATA.

SPECIAL NOTE: Special attention should also be paid to the attitude of the competitor during ATA Creative competition. Rudeness or inappropriate behavior during any competition will not be tolerated and may cause disqualification.

At the conclusion of each tournament season, the International Tournament Director will evaluate the number of competitors in each division and determine if any changes are to be made for subsequent tournament seasons.
